

A NEW PORTRAIT FROM URBAN ARTIST SOAP

FELIX DA HOUSECAT

CAPTURED ON CANVAS

Urban Artist Soap aka Adam Klodzinski has just completed the latest piece of work in his extensive portraits of musicians and actors admired by the urban artist such as Dizze Rascal, Jamie Campbell Bower, Plan B and Professor Green to name a few. The new portrait is of Chicago DJ, Record Producer Felix da Housecat.

Felix well known for his distinctive style and for his house music and electroclash albums has been captured on canvas by the hand of Soap.

For many years Soap has greatly admired Felix's artistic musical style and approached him to create one of his iconic pieces of work created in Soap's unique style working with both airbrushes and aerosols.

SOAP was born Adam Klodzinski in Poland in 1981. Inspired by the golden age of New York graffiti he took huge risks to learn his craft spraying trains and walls in Northern Poland. After joining B2 crew he began to receive commissions for murals, expanding the graffiti culture in Poland that now sees local councils supporting mural projects both legally and financially. SOAP moved to England in 2006 and began developing his unique super-realist style of graffiti, working with both aerosol and airbrush.

Soap is currently working on 2 big urban art projects to take place in 2015 in Italy.
